Foreword

"FOOTPRINTS '54" is a record of college activity. But more than that it is a picture of life at a liberal arts college of today. This year, the "FOOTPRINTS" staff has endeavored to show how the tradition of the liberal arts college, developed and modified, has come to us from across the span of centuries.

This tradition began in ancient times. During the exodus of the Jewish people from Egypt, God gave them a pillar of fire to guide them through the desert and the Ten Commandments to guide them through life. It was in the Greece of Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle that men began, in earnest, the quest for knowledge and truth through the study of history, rhetoric, mathematics, and especially philosophy. Nor was the physical side of life ignored. For the Olympic games of Greece had a sacred significance, and "a sound mind in a sound body" was the credo of the age.

After the birth of Christ, men like Augustine, Abelard and Thomas Aquinas developed a system of philosophy whereby all men might better realize the ultimate truth of earthly being and thence proceed to a greater understanding of God. At this time, too, the other arts and the sciences were acquiring added depth and perfection. The rise of Medieval Universities brought this body of liberal arts together, and many laymen and clergy flocked to Universities, both as teachers and students.

The Renaissance contributed much to the arts, and also gave rise to a wider interest in learning. Universities grew in size and number. And it was at these Universities, filled with brilliant and ever-seeking minds, that the torch of learning was held high, and passed on across the years to the liberal arts college of the present.

So it is that we participate in this rich heritage of culture, knowledge and custom. It remains for us, the students of a typical liberal arts college, to use it humbly and well to promote the objectives of St. Joseph's College—"the advancement of scholarship, the fashioning of a Catholic woman, the service of this Republic, and the perfection of humanity."

Dedication

Because of her devotion to St. Joseph's and her untiring efforts on our behalf, the Seniors have chosen to dedicate this book to Sister Charitina, Dean of Women.

Although her motto has always been to do much and ask nothing by way of earthly recognition, we feel she has become too distinctive a part of the College to let her work go unnoticed. For over twenty-five years she has inspired, guided, and defended the students of St. Joseph's and the traditions for which this school has stood.

That God may grant Sister many more happy years is our sincere prayer.

In the Bible we read, "And the Lord went before them to show the way by day in a pillar of cloud and by night in a pillar of fire; that He might be the guide of their journey at both times." Just as the Israelites were guided safely to Canaan, the Promised Land, are we guided by His Commandments and brought to a richer appreciation of His Creation by our faculty during our college years.

RIGHT REVEREND
WILLIAM T. DILLON
President

Our first introduction to Father Dillon comes in our freshman philosophy course where he introduces us to the Scholastic principles. Priest, President, Philosopher — Father guides us through our four years here at St. Joseph's with a willing and able hand.

VERY REVEREND
FRANCIS X. FITZGIBBON
Dean

Our kind and ever present Dean, Father Fitz, takes charge of us from the day we enter school until the day we leave. He is our advisor, but more than that, he is our friend.

Officers of Administration

SISTER M. CHARITINA
Dean of Women

Sister Charitina, our Dean of Women, worries and watches over us, helping us to a successful achievement of our college career.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE
 LIBRARY
 BROOKLYN, N. Y.

The Ancient Greeks and Romans were noted for their skill in the fields of Rhetoric, Drama, Athletics. Their success in each of these gave to future generations the incentive to enrich their own cultures by participation in these diverse activities.

The spirit of these Ancient Peoples lives on—right into the present day where, here at St. Joseph's, we take part in the varied sports and club activities which prepare us mentally and physically for leadership and sportsmanship.

Activities

FRONT ROW: M. Shea, Secretary; C. Ortega, President; J. Alberti, Vice President; L. Cardone, Treasurer. STANDING: M. O'Hallek, N. Cordaro, E. O'Keefe, M. Kruse, K. Casey, A. Gilchrist, A. Slavin, A. McCormick, N. Trani, C. Scoria.

Student Government

Student government at St. Joseph's aims at developing school spirit and responsibility through active self-administration of college affairs.

Every girl is a member of the Undergraduate Association and has equal voice at its monthly meetings. Led by its officers, the Association's government operates through an elective council. Important phases of student life are regulated through subsidiary committees. The Exam Committee administers all examinations under the honor system. The Attendance Committee controls absence and cuts. The Extra-Curricular Committee systemizes the activities of clubs. There is also a General Assembly Committee which keep our weekly G. A. interesting, informative and entertaining.

Through democratic exercises of her rights and privileges, each student is responsible not only for her own activities, but also for the well-being of the entire group, and the joint attainment of a satisfying college life.

The Exam Committee works hard at distributing all hour quizzes and final examinations. Since we have the honor system, they also hear appeals on violations of rules.

The Attendance Committee keeps track of all absences and latenesses during the term. They hear appeals on cuts in our accredited classes.

Attendance at extra-curricular functions is checked by our Extra-Curricular Committee. No credit is given for activities which a student overcuts.

Glee Club Concert

Jean Haslam sings "Summertime."

Last May the Glee Club presented its annual Spring Concert, a varied program of selections chosen to please all musical tastes.

Opening with the rendition of several religious pieces, the concert continued with a group of secular and novelty tunes, delightful solos by Jeanne Cushing and Jean Haslam, and a thrilling duet for two pianos by Father D'Ecclesiis and Anne Marie Slavin.

Finally came the popular songs of today. The girls concluded the evening with the lively tune "It's a Grand Night for Singing" — a statement with which the capacity audience heartily agreed.

Anne Marie Slavin in the piano duo with Father.

Father D'Ecclesiis takes a well deserved bow.

Father conducts the girls along the paths of intricate, fine music. The girls sing as beautifully as they are dressed, which makes for a fine evening of good entertainment.

Strange things were happening here the night of the Modern Dance recital. Above the dancers give us their interpretation of "supersonic" choreography (left) and "The Puppets" (right).

The sweeping melody of "Blue Violins" is gracefully danced to.

"The play's the thing"

The Modern Dance Club and Chapel Players both put on shows for us this year. In its first recital the Modern Dance group gave a wonderful performance, one worthy of Broadway. They proved the ingenuity of the students to interpret and construct intricate dance routines.

Chapel Players also entertained us several times during the year — each presentation proving a great cleverness and adaptability of St. Joseph's students.

Bridge Club

Last May, in the school auditorium, the Religion Committee sponsored its "Through The Looking Glass" Fashion Show and Bridge. Under the able direction of fashion commentator Mary Schlusser, a group of Saint Joseph's girls modeled, with professional poise, an array of lovely clothes for all occasions.

All this, plus refreshments, and the raffling off of the Sweepstake-Prize, a sterling silver service, added up to a very successful and thoroughly enjoyable evening.

Before the beginning of each semester, the incoming Freshmen are welcomed by their Junior sisters.

Orientation and Investiture

Freshmen scan the bulletin board to see in which rooms their classes are being conducted.

Each September, Father Grady presents to every Freshman her academic cap which has been blessed at the Investiture Ceremony.

Orientation week is a time of introduction, explanation and assimilation. The new student is made aware of the many varied activities with which she will come into contact in the ensuing four years.

The program consists of a well mixed combination of welcoming speeches and descriptions of student government, clubs, plans, organizations and customs. Luncheon and entertainment provide an enjoyable diversion from the inevitable entrance tests. The adoption ceremony and Frosh-Junior Tea conclude the program.

At some invisible point the heterogeneous group is replaced by a welding together of its members, from which emerges a new Freshman class.

The crown has been placed on the head of Our Lady by the President of the Undergraduate Association.

Among the spiritual activities of the Religion Committee at the college are: the May Crowning, Benediction, First Friday devotions, and the "prayer bell." The crowning of the Blessed Virgin takes place on the campus on the first Monday in May. Hymns are sung and the Rosary recited together with a prayer of dedication to Mary. The crown is placed on the statue by the Undergraduate president.

Benediction is given daily at the Holy Hour in the chapel. An "Evening With Christ" is held on the First Friday of each month at which exposition of the Blessed Sacrament is held with the students forming an honor guard. Prayers are recited each day at five minutes of every hour by a member of the Religion Committee. These prayers are said over the microphone, with a special dedication for the hour. The signal for the start of these short hourly devotions is the familiar prayer bell at which each student puts aside her daily problems to devote a moment to Almighty God.

The "prayer bell" rings at five to the hour.

An eager audience awaits the beginning of the entertainment on Parent's Day.

The faculty greets our parents after the entertainment.

Parents Day

Last fall, the college again observed its annual Parents' Day. This major school event was attended by students, faculty, and of course, our parents. It is one of those rare opportunities for all these groups to meet.

The day is characterized, first of all, by entertainment in the form of a skit prepared by the Dramatic Society. Needless to say, this is to show curious parents exactly why they so seldom see their daughters before six P.M.

Parents' Day also features the installation of the new members into Delta Epsilon Sigma. This was done solemnly with an escort of student council and faculty members in academic robes. The ceremony was keynoted by an address from Sister Alice Francis of the Child Study Department.

Later, there is an opportunity for parents to meet one another when refreshments are served in the gym. This year, after tea, sandwiches and conversation, we left, feeling very proud of our parents, our friends and our school.

Reception into Delta Epsilon Sigma, National Catholic, Intercollegiate Honor Society.

Basketball

Here they are—the winners! Our prize varsity team is flanked on either side by Ann Bauch, manager, and the coach, Miss Ward.

Our varsity did a tremendous job this year. Good teamwork, excellent players, and the best in coaching brought us a top season in which we lost only one game out of eleven.

Miss Ward coached our stars into their victories after many hours of practice. The "All-Stars" of this year consisted of Mary Engelkirger, Peggy Ansbro, and Ruth Grennan as forwards, and Eve Birnkammer, Lorretta Crockett (Captain), and Marita Ryan as guards. Opposing teams couldn't come near them for skill and sportsmanship.

Even our cheerleaders showed up this year in perky new outfits which certainly brightened up the sidelines. All in all, this was truly a banner year for the whole Athletic Association.

Our cheerleaders add "glamour" to the game and really build up the team spirit.

Ruth Grennan, one of our stars, makes a great play for the ball against N.Y.U.

Although N.Y.U. hit the ball, S.J.C. was right on hand to catch it. We won the game by a score of 52-44.

Senior Ball

They were dancing to soft music in a beautiful flower garden with a white picket fence and a huge knotty oak tree in the center, a tiny cottage in the background, and distant hills in view.

This was the setting of the Senior Ball. The time—December 28th. The place—the Garden Room of the Essex House. The soft music was supplied by Lou Ross and his band.

The music ranged from sweet to hot and, of course, there was the traditional engaged couple's dance. The crowded floor appeared as a gay profusion of color. Between dances the girls and their escorts sat at tables inside the "cottage."

Mary Schlusser was chairman of the Ball, and she and her committee managed every feature of the event with ease. Each girl received a lovely silver bracelet as a memento of the occasion.

The entire Ball was a great success, leaving the Seniors after their last big college event with mixed emotions of nostalgia and happiness.

Our Seniors and their escorts seem to be enjoying themselves as they prepare to trip the light fantastic at the Ball. The music, the atmosphere, the beautiful gowns — all these helped to make the occasion a memorable one for all who attended.

The chairman of the Ball, Mary Schlusser, did an excellent job of planning and management. She coordinated all the many facets which go to make up a memorable evening and through her committees successfully brought the evening to a wonderful conclusion.

Junior Prom

The Class of 1955 celebrated Junior Week this year from February 15 to February 20. Monday was the Junior Mass and ring blessing ceremonies; Wednesday the Junior Banquet was held at the Hotel Granada; Thursday the Seniors treated the entire Junior Class to the theater; and the top off of the whole week was the Junior Prom on Saturday evening, at which our auditorium was transformed into a make-believe ballroom.

Santina Ursino, Chairman, poses with her Junior Week Committee.

Lovely gowns and lovely girls were the trend at our Junior Prom, don't you agree?

The Banquet was wonderful, say the Juniors as they pose for the photographer.

Couples waltz all around our transformed gymnasium as the band plays "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Informal Dance

This year, for our annual sports hop, we decided to "Go Dutch." Upon arriving the girls found that the Sophomores had transformed the gym into a land of wind mills and wooden shoes.

We danced the "Bunny Hop," to the music of Phil Simms' excellent band, ate the delicious refreshments, chatted with our friends—all of whom looked quite different from, say, 9:00 A.M. on a Monday morning.

Lu Cardone, Kay McMullin, and Joan Riordan pose with their escorts. This is the hard working committee.

Even if you can't make that trip to Europe this year you can still enjoy a bit of Parisian atmosphere if you are a member of the French club. These members have seen native French plays, eaten crepe suzettes at French restaurants, and even listen to the French translations at the sessions of the United Nations.

French

Spanish

Habla Usted Espanol? The Spanish club provides many activities for interested students. Discussions of native drama, novels, dances, and customs are held at the meetings. They are often supplemented by films and slides. It is not unusual to hear a group of our Senoritas (perhaps in spirit only!) discussing the state of the world in their second language.

German

St. Joseph's German Club has a membership composed of students who wish to learn more of the culture of the German people. Each year the club takes part in putting on a language entertainment for the student body. During the year, the members attend German movies, visit restaurants noted for their German dishes, and prepare an exhibit to supplement the discussions of their regular meetings.

The purpose of this study group is to learn in more detail about some of the many important topics connected with the young child. A topic such as retardation, a physical handicap, or a behavior problem, is presented by a well-qualified professional person at each monthly evening meeting of the group.

Child study

Mathematics

The Math Club functions as a study club. Its main purpose is to discuss topics and show applications not covered in the classroom. There are also many distinguished guests invited to discuss these subjects and these meetings are open to all students. The objective of the club is to encourage wide reading in mathematics.

The International Relations Club enables us to extend our knowledge and understanding of world affairs by inviting speakers from many countries to share their first-hand information with us. The highlight of the year's activities was the Model Security Council Session held here at St. Joseph's on an inter-collegiate level. Discussions on international affairs with other colleges are also actively engaged in.

J. R. C.

Debate

Their rostrum may only be the "rec" room, but our Debating Society follows a time-honored tradition of resolving controversies by free discussion. Student body and faculty are invited to the debates at which such topics as free trade and segregation are discussed. Whether they represent the affirmative or negative side of the argument, our debaters have a long record of victories in intercollegiate competition.

N. F. C. C. S.

The National Federation of Catholic College Students has long been one of the permanent organizations at St. Joseph's. Membership in the N.F.C.C.S. provides the college with a "clearing house" of information on extra-curricular activities. In the past years the student body has learned much more about the action mechanism of the organization through informal talks by regional officers at our G.A.'s.

What's new at St. Joseph's? Why, Quid Novi, of course! Those two latin words are the new name of the Social Science Club and translated mean "What's New?" The club carries on a variety of activities, the members ever trying to find out just what is new. They debate, discuss, and decide current national issues among themselves as well as with other schools.

Quid Novi

Literary Society

The Literary Society meets once a month to discuss the works of various authors such as Truman Capote and Frank O'Connor. Members may be seen browsing in the library, reading the book to be discussed next meeting. The primary purpose of the club is to bring to its members a richer, broader understanding of all that is important and excellent in literature.

Service Social

Though the members of Social Service hold no regularly scheduled meetings, they are extremely busy during the holiday season. Lists are posted on the bulletin board at Christmas time and the students sign up to buy "Tommy" rubber boots or "Alice" an apron. Christmas baskets, and Easter baskets as well, are distributed by the club members to needy families. Their charter is truly the corporal works of mercy.

The Psychology Club offers to those students interested in the field a program of varied and interesting activities. The members view films relating to pertinent psychological problems and participate in active discussions concerning these questions; also on the agenda are field trips, this year's destination being the Willowbrook School in Staten Island. Outside speakers are frequent club guests. The group meets once a month and is under the direction of Dr. Strassburger.

Psychology

Chapel Players

The Chapel Players offer an opportunity for expression to aspiring actresses, producers, and stage artists. Throughout the year their talent and energy are shown in their G.A. programs and especially in their major production. Last year the club performed in Gheon's, The Comedian, and their production this year of Our Hearts Were Young and Gay, we're sure will be on the same high standard.

Modern Dance

The Modern Dance Club at St. Joseph's really came of age this year with its first major public recital. Completely choreographed and danced by the club members, the production showed their creative energy and talent and promised future performances by the new dynamic group. During the year the club members also danced in G.A. programs and appeared as calypso angels at the Christmas party.

The spiritual activity of each girl at St. Joseph's is the main concern of the Religion Committee. This body arranges for, and promotes many religious activities, centering around our Chapel. An evening with Christ each First Friday, daily Mass, and a daily Holy Hour, all are sponsored and assisted at by Religion Committee girls. In addition, the girls provide an hourly reminder of Christ, with prayers at five minutes to each hour of the school day, said over the microphone and broadcasts to every floor of the school. An annual Fashion Show and Bridge completes the activity of this Committee which is one of the most vital at St. Joseph's.

Religion Committee

Art Club

In all seasons the work of the Art Club is in evidence. It is their job to make the posters for all the different activities and they arrange all the Christmas decorations. They presented a G.A. in which they featured Our Lady's life in art. The work done by the club is also exhibited annually.

The Glee Club, a well-known organization at St. Joseph's, was very active throughout the school year. The girls, directed by Father D'Ecclesiis, entertained the new Freshmen during Orientation week, sang Christmas carols at Ft. Hamilton Veteran's Hospital, and participated at Commencement, and other school functions. Its main event, of course, was the Spring Concert — always one of our most eagerly-awaited events.

Glee Club

Choir

The Choir participates in many activities on campus. Its members sing the High Masses on First Fridays, and chant the sacred Gregorian music during Passion Week services at school. This group also sings at the Baccalaureate service. At Christmas the Choir girls don the garb of "Choir boys" and sing carols at the Christmas G.A.

St. Joseph's is a member of the National Catholic Honor Society. Each year on Parent's Day those Seniors chosen for high scholastic achievement and outstanding character are initiated into this select group. Presented with the gold and white cloth shield of the Society, they wear it on their academic gown. This year's honored few are: J. Sokolowski, H. Lande, J. Mooney, C. Ortega, F. D'Amato, and J. Alberti.

Delta

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges each year makes a selection of campus leaders from schools throughout the country. Students chosen for the annual publication are nominated by their institutions on the basis of scholarship, cooperation, and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities. The girls chosen tell the story of school spirit here at St. Joseph's and are: C. Ortega, M. Brennan, J. Alberti, H. Lande, and J. Mooney.

Mercier

Mercier Circle, the school philosophical society, is open to Seniors with a high philosophy average. The members at their first monthly meeting select a topic for further discussion and penetration throughout the year. Santayana and Descartes are thrashed out in "laymen's language." Developed with faculty aid, these meetings help the girls to better understand and more easily apply the fruits of St. Joseph's philosophy program.

The Loria staff assembles for their picture in their office on the top floor of the library. This is the group which produces our college magazine.

Father Diviney and Nettie are the guiding forces behind Loria.

Loria

Loria, the literary magazine of St. Joseph's, is published three times a year. The staff meets weekly to discuss topics of general interest and possible articles. The magazine is always eagerly awaited by the students and faculty alike. Thought provoking studies on world events or philosophies, gripping fiction, fine blank verse, newsy "school gab" — take your choice; Loria has them all.

Hard at work, the girls (with Father's help) produce a truly fine literary magazine.

Set up the kingpin! The Bowling Club is ready for action. Sponsored by the Athletic Association, it meets once a week at a nearby bowling alley. The group includes the expert, the not so expert, and the gutterball contingent. The member with the lowest score enjoys almost as much prestige and twice as much encouragement as the champ of the week.

Bowling

Basketball

Aside from our Varsity members, we also have a club for the girls who like to play basketball but are not team members. Each week they meet in the gym and improve their skills by playing games among themselves. Good sportsmanship and teamwork are the bywords of this club, and they're willing to take you on any time.

Softball

With the first sunny days of Spring our softball team revivifies itself and you can see them once a week out on our athletic field, batting and pitching like experts. Intercollegiate games are played each year and, win or lose, the games are really exciting. And don't think they play in a restrained fashion; much shouting and many a scraped knee attest to enthusiastic participation.

Footprints

The FOOTPRINTS '54 staff began its task in the summer of 1953. To carry through the theme of the book, extensive research had to be done for illustrative and literary features. Plans for layouts, copy content, all the thousand and one tiny details that comprise a yearbook, were discussed and resolved with the aid of Mr. Wohl of CAMPUS PUBLISHING CO.

From the time the fall semester began until the last deadline each member of the staff worked at her particular assignment and watched FOOTPRINTS grow.

FOOTPRINTS '54 is a satisfying finished produce to those who have worked on it. Certainly if effort is a measurement of success, FOOTPRINTS should be on the top.

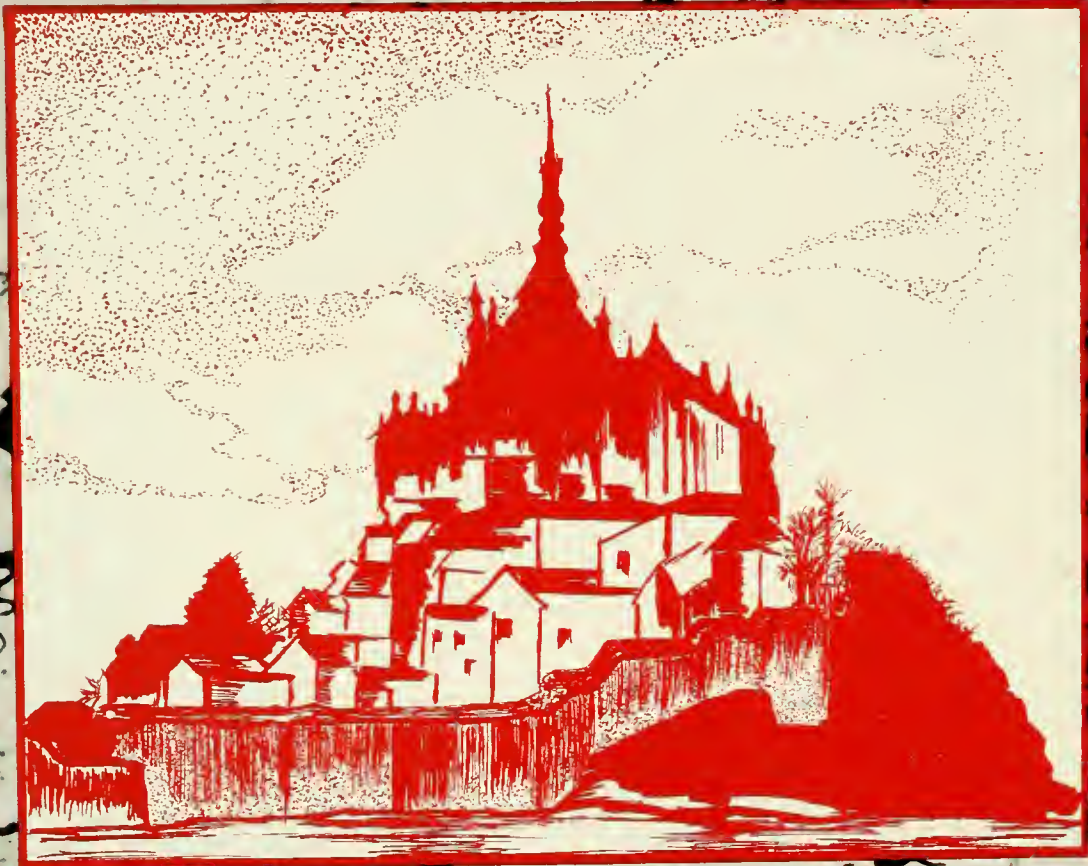

Copy is industriously created and typed by our hard-working Juniors, D. Burke, C. Baumbach, E. Tyska, and H. Garvey.

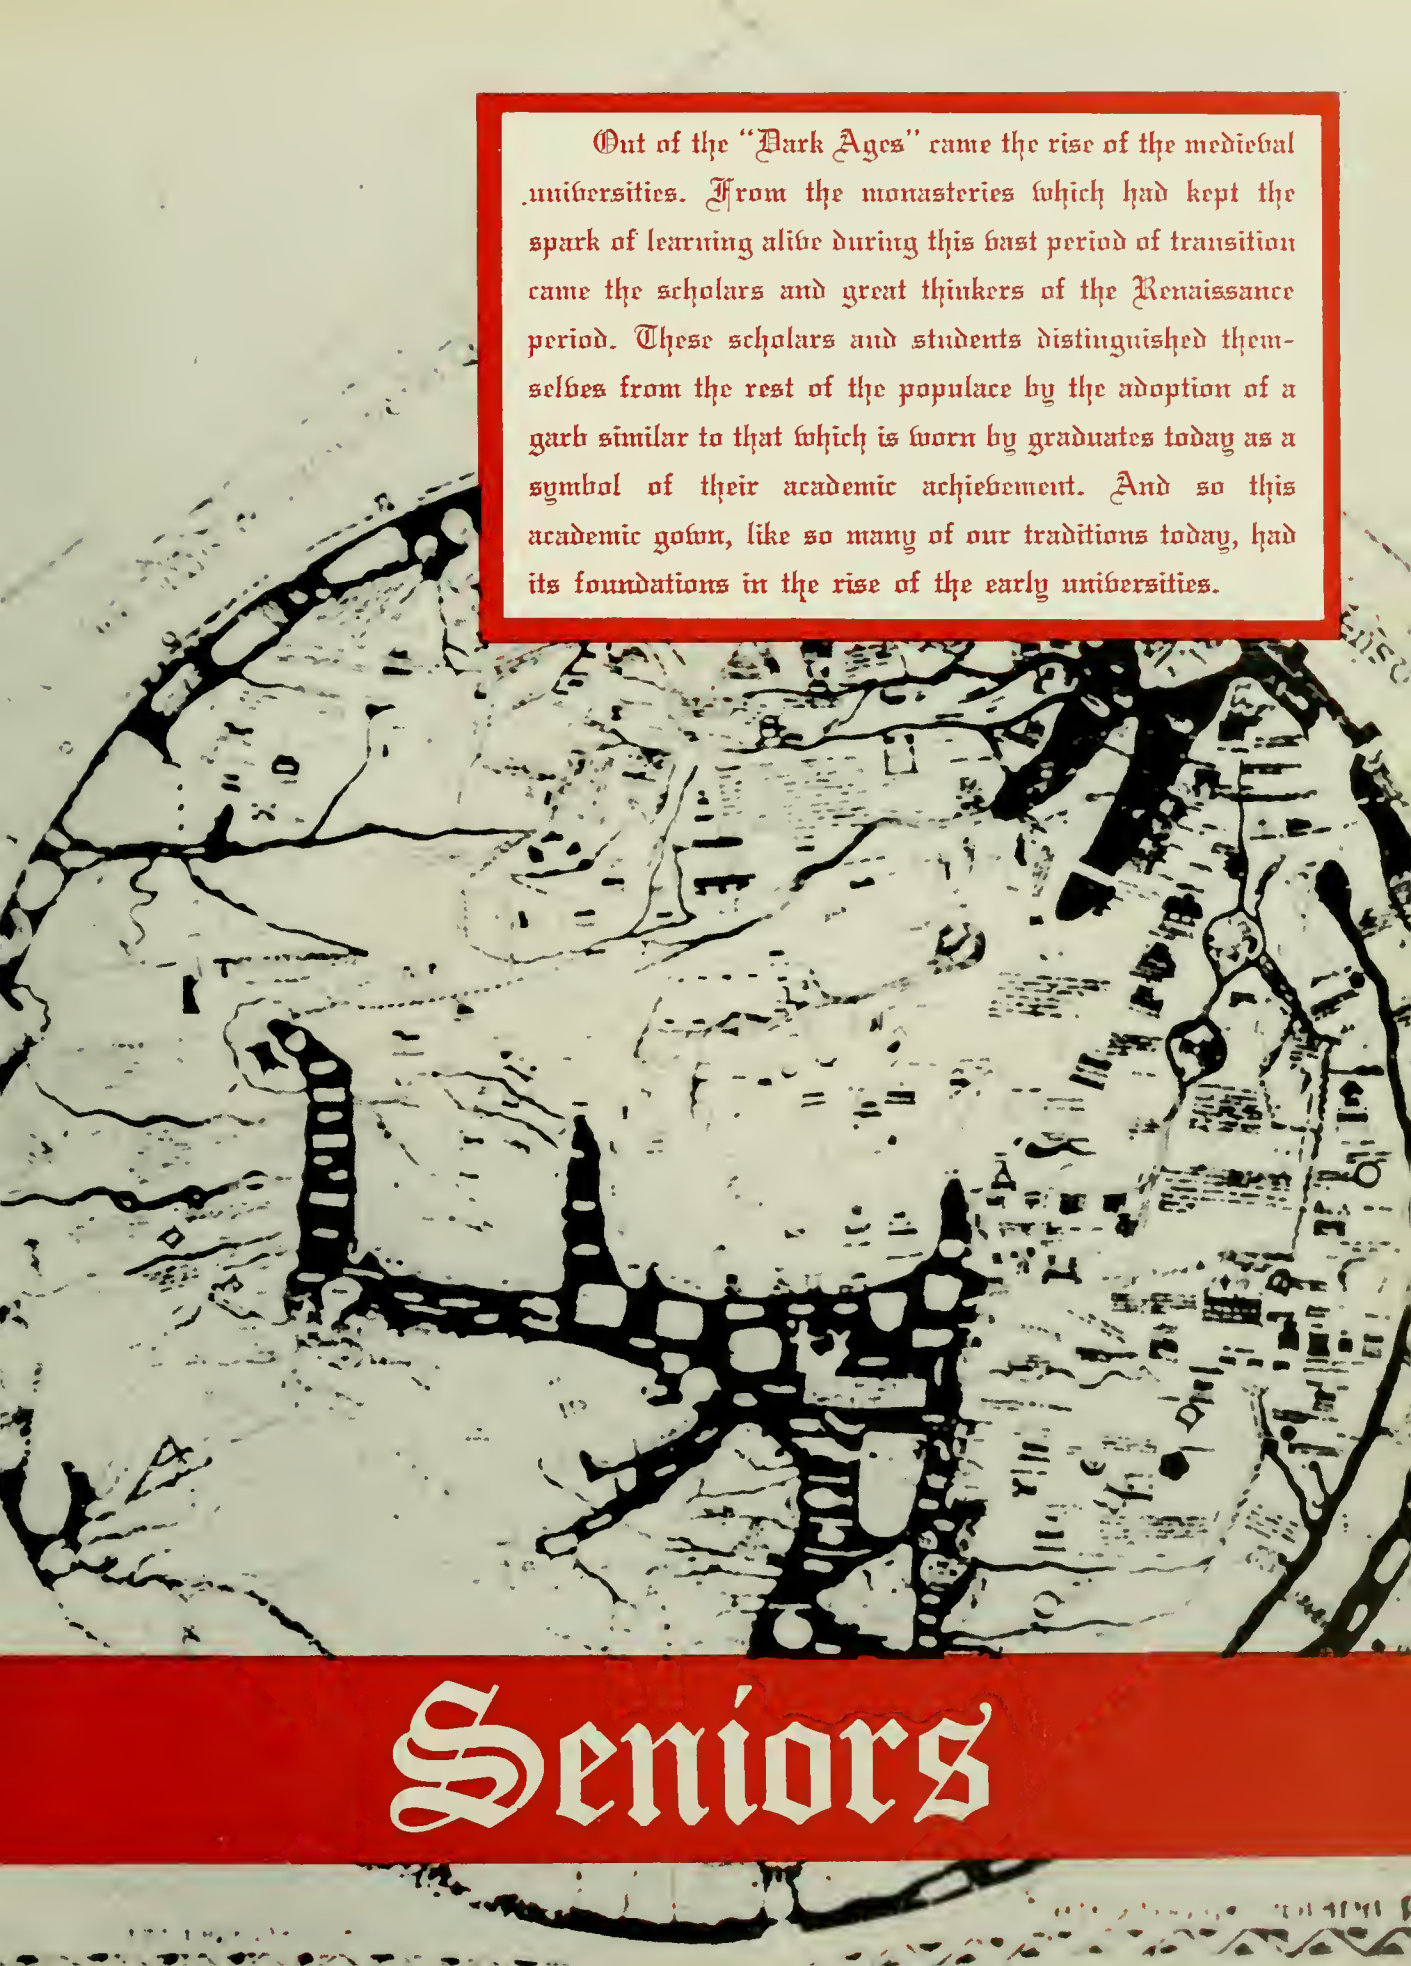

Copy, research, finances, and good photos are worked over by the staff throughout the term. There was much feverish activity as deadline time drew near but all came out well.

Mr. Wohl of CAMPUS PUBLICATIONS poses with the FOOTPRINTS '54 staff. Our editors are in front with their staffs backing them up.

Out of the "Dark Ages" came the rise of the medieval universities. From the monasteries which had kept the spark of learning alive during this vast period of transition came the scholars and great thinkers of the Renaissance period. These scholars and students distinguished themselves from the rest of the populace by the adoption of a garb similar to that which is worn by graduates today as a symbol of their academic achievement. And so this academic gown, like so many of our traditions today, had its foundations in the rise of the early universities.

The Renaissance heralded a new dawn in intellectual development. An era of gradual awakening, it gave rise to an awareness of man as a whole. Realizing his individuality, he stimulated his faceted character by the development of arts and sciences. Enthusiasm, coupled with experimentation, led to the solidification of concepts in these challenging fields. A whole new way of life resulted.

A miniature Renaissance continually occurs here at St. Joseph's. In the course of four years, the undergraduate participates in a program of study designed to liberate and broaden her ideas. This is the essence of a liberal arts college.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Staff of FOOTPRINTS 1954 wishes to thank all those who helped to make this yearbook a reality, and most especially we want to express our thanks to

Father Fitzgibbon, for his encouragement,

Sister Joseph Immacualte, for her confidence in us,

Mr. Howard Wohl, of Campus Publishing Company, for his helpful ideas and unceasing efforts on our behalf,

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Tarr, photographers for FOOTPRINTS, for their endless patience with us,

Mr. Peter Elsbeck, for so generously giving his time and efforts to take the pictures of the faculty and class officers, and Sister Mary Winifred, for all her help in our research.
